Addiction/SUD

enCompass: A Comprehensive Training on Navigating Addiction

Did you know that in the United States, over 40 million people have an addiction? That's 1 in 7 people.

Addiction is a misunderstood disease that is frequently stigmatized in a way that other chronic diseases, such as diabetes and heart disease are not. This course includes in-depth, science-based information about substance use disorders and addiction, treatment options, communication strategies, self-care tips, and more. Leading researchers and physicians in the addiction field, as well as individuals in recovery and impacted family members also contributed to the development of this training.

What will you learn?

- How addiction affects the brain
- The signs and symptoms of addiction
- How to start the conversation
- Getting an assessment and treatment options
- How to set healthy boundaries
- How to access recovery support

Who should attend?

- Families, Friends, Caregivers
- Clergy
- Law Enforcement & First Responders
- Employers
- Educators
- Community Based Service Providers

Cost: $20.00

Fees charged will be refunded upon completion of the class. Those registering but not attending, will not be refunded. Cancellations will be accepted and refunded up to 24 hours prior to the training. The refund will return to the original payment method within 5-7 business days. presented by Gail Dafler, Goodwill Easter Seals of the Miami Valley

The mission of Generation Rx is to educate people of all ages about the potential dangers of misusing prescription medications. In doing so, we strive to enhance medication safety among our youth, college students, other adults in our communities, and older adults. Prescription medications can help us live longer and healthier lives, but any medication has the potential to do harm – especially when misused. This training will teach you how to properly and securely store medications, how to safely dispose of medication no longer needed, and much more.

STIGMA SURVEY

Montgomery County ADAMHS has been chosen as a pilot site for the national Anti-Stigma Initiative, a pilot program of the Addiction Policy Forum.

The survey linked below is part of a study conducted by the University of Delaware and the Addiction Policy Forum to measure addiction knowledge, confidence responding to a substance use disorder, and levels of stigma, including stereotypes, prejudice, and discrimination.

Individuals with a substance use disorder are often subject to harsh moral judgments and frequent discrimination. Research has found that individuals who experience stigma due to an SUD are more likely to continue engaging in substance use and manifest greater delayed treatment access and high rates of dropout.

Please take the brief survey below and share with anyone that works, lives, or considers themselves part of the Montgomery County community.

Motivational Interviewing Fundamentals (3 days)

Motivational Interviewing (MI) is an evidenced-based approach to create collaborative, goal oriented dialog with an individual to help them identify their readiness for positive changes within their own means. Along with being used as a clinical intervention for substance use and therapy, MI has been used in a wide-range of professions such as health care, corrections, and prevention.

Curriculum highlights include:

- Motivational Interviewing: The Science of Human Behavior Change
- Change conversations and the Spirit of MI
- Resistance Examined: Resistance-lowering techniques
- Engagement: Creating the partnership so critical for change
- Focus: What is the horizon? Setting up change targets, especially when your target is not shared

This course is highly interactive. You will need to be able to enter break out rooms and cameras are requested to be on so instructors are able to observe skills practice. Montgomery County Providers will be prioritized if seats become limited.

Crisis Management & De-escalation

Crisis Management and De-escalation will teach participants how to support someone who is experiencing a crisis. We will start with a foundational understanding of how a crisis develops, the brain in crisis, and discuss the threats and opportunities of crisis. We will also focus on the mental preparation skills that can lead to effective intervention under stress. Participants will increase confidence in their ability to effectively intervene with those in extreme crisis by learning the skills of the Loss Model of De-escalation. Crisis Management and De-escalation is an essential skill for those who must display patience, empathy, compassion, and a genuine desire to help people in crisis. The training is designed for those who serve on the front line including public safety, first responders, health care providers, mental health professionals, crisis workers, and human service professionals.

Heartfulness Meditation Series

Presented by: Uma Mallapudi, Heartfulness Program Director

As professionals, we are often caught up in the non-stop chaos of everyday work life. This makes it difficult to simply relax. Just as we strengthen our muscles with physical exercise, meditation builds our inner strength.

Meditation can increase focus, improve memory, reduce repeating, looping thoughts, allow for greater emotional control and improve job satisfaction.

Please join us for this five week series that will include guided meditation sessions, suggestions and techniques to deepen your understanding of the practice of meditation and the art of living consciously. No experience is necessary and all abilities are welcome.

The 7 C's of Resilience

Dr Ginsburg, child pediatrician and human development expert, proposes that there are 7 integral and interrelated components that make up being resilient – competence, confidence, connection, character, contribution, coping and control.

1. Competence – is the ability to know how to handle stressful situations effectively. It requires having the skills to face challenges, and having had the opportunity to practice using these skills so that one feels competent in dealing with situations.
2. Confidence – is the belief in one's own abilities and is rooted in competence. Children gain confidence by being able to demonstrate their competence in real situations. When children are noticed for their strengths, watch them soar high and be self-motivated to overcome their challenges.
3. Connection – children with close ties to friends, family, and community groups are likely to have a stronger sense of security and sense of belonging. These children are more likely to have strong values and are less likely to seek out alternative destructive behaviors. Help foster a sense of belonging and discuss ways your children can strengthen their ties by being a good friend, a caring family member, and an important community member.
4. Character – children with "character" enjoy a strong sense of self-worth and confidence. They are in touch with their values and are comfortable sticking to them. They can demonstrate a caring attitude towards others. They have a strong sense of right and wrong and are prepared to make wise choices and contribute to the world. By teaching skills of empathy and caring for others, our youth are empowered to recognize that they have the ability to make choices and that they can make "wise" choices towards their values rather than away from their values.
5. Contribution – if children can experience personally contributing to the world, they can learn the powerful lesson that the world is a better place because they are in it. Hearing the thank you's and appreciation when your child contributes, will increase their willingness to take actions and make choices that improve the world, thereby enhancing their own competence, character, and sense of connection. Make time for your child to explore how they can contribute and matter in this world by finding projects that your family can do together in order to experience the power of contributing.
6. Coping – children who have a wide repertoire of coping skills (social skills, stress reduction skills) are able to cope more effectively and are better prepared to overcome life's challenges. Teach your children both stress-reduction skills and social skills for coping with everyday life stresses.
7. Control – when children realize that they have control over their decisions and actions, they are more likely to know how to make choices in a way that they can bounce back from life's challenges. Provide children a sense that they have choices – on how they wish to think and act, and that they can determine results based on these choices.

Changing the Odds for Health Equity; Does Your Zip Code Matter?

Presented by Dr. Anthony Iton, MD

In 2013, when Forbes magazine listed the top ten healthcare quotes, the number one quote was attributed to Dr. Anthony Iton: “When it comes to health, your zip code matters more than your genetic code.” This brief presentation will address some of the data and evidence behind that quote by exploring the strength of the relationship between life expectancy and neighborhood. Using hundreds of thousands of death certificates, GIS mapping and other simple data analyses, a profile of life expectancy by neighborhood in seven different cities and regions will be presented. The implications for U.S. health spending and population health management will be discussed and a model for understanding the social determinants of health will also be presented.

About the presenter: Tony Iton is Senior Vice President for Programs & Partnerships at The California Endowment, a private, statewide health foundation whose mission is to expand access to affordable, quality health care for underserved individuals and communities, and to promote fundamental improvements in the health status. Dr. Iton's primary interest is the health of disadvantaged populations and the contributions of race, class, wealth, education, geography, and employment to health status. He has asserted that in every public health area of endeavor, be it immunizations, chronic disease, HIV/AIDS, STDs, obesity, or even disaster preparedness, public health practitioners must recognize that they are confronted with the enduring consequences of structural poverty, institutional racism and other forms of systemic injustice.

Implicit Bias

Presented by Dr. Chenelle Jones, Jones Advantage, LLC

Our experiences shape who we are, and multiple factors including race, ethnicity, gender, height, weight, sexual orientation, and birthplace, impact the lens in which we view the world. During the implicit bias workshop, Dr. Chenelle Jones will introduce attendees to definitions and concepts centered on diversity, equity, inclusion and belonging. She will then build upon those definitions to provide an overview of implicit and explicit biases.

The ultimate goal of this workshop is to help attendees understand the impact of bias, while simultaneously providing actionable steps for minimizing its influence on personal and professional interactions. Additionally, attendees will be provided with tools to better embrace diversity, address personal biases, and co-create an environment of belonging.

Injustice By Design

Presented by Dr. Chenelle Jones, Jones Advantage, LLC

Structural racism refers to the public and private policies, institutional practices, cultural norms and mechanisms that contribute to inequality as defined by unequal freedom, opportunity, value, resources, advantage, restrictions, and/or social constraints. Structural racism is often interwoven throughout communities and contributes to societal inequalities in housing, economic development, food access, health care, environmental stability, education, and public safety. Recognizing this, there is a need to better understand how different elements of structural racism work together to perpetuate injustices in laws, policies, and practices that impact people on a daily basis. The purpose of this 2-part, interactive workshop is to explore the sources and mechanisms through which structural racism operates, how it contributes to inequality, and how to mitigate its impact. Dr. Chenelle Jones will not only provide insights into known sources of structural racism and models of health equity, she will also go beyond these to discuss the impact of urban development on communities of color.

Is Gender the New Gay? And Other Q+ Matters Found in School Settings

Presented by staff from Public Health Dayton-Montgomery County

LGBTQ+ youth, according to multiple sources, consistently and disproportionately experience marginalization and health inequities at higher rates as compared to their cis/het counterparts. In fact, Q+ youth identify 4xs higher ACEs and rates of attempting suicide among Q+ teens is more than twice the rate among all US teens. When adding other identities such as race, ethnicity, abilities, and socio-economic factors, health disparity's data increases even more. How do we effect the societal and relationship challenges that Q+ young people and their families face so that trauma-informed care and resiliency building skills can be eclipsed by thriving? We will explore strategies, frameworks, and approaches for including Q+ youth in curricula, classroom, and community programming so a new narrative of thriving can be achieved.

Presented by the National Conference for Community & Justice of Greater Dayton

Have you ever had someone say something to you and later realized that the comment was hurtful? If so, then you may have been the recipient of a microaggression. Those subtle, sometimes unconscious comments that can build up and have a huge impact on our life. If so, then this workshop is for you. Through this interactive and engaging workshop, participants gain an understanding of what microaggressions are, how they impact a person and ways that they can support someone and educate the individual making the microaggression.

Suicide Prevention

QPR Gatekeeper (Suicide Prevention)

QPR is a nationally recognized and evidence-based suicide prevention model where organizations, businesses and everyday individuals can learn the needed skills to recognize and intervene when someone is showing signs of a suicidal crisis. QPR stands for Question, Persuade, and Refer — the 3 simple steps anyone can learn to help save a life from suicide. Just as people trained in CPR can help save a life, people trained in QPR learn how to recognize the warning signs of a suicide crisis and how to question, persuade, and refer someone to help.

After this session you will be able to:

- Recognize and identify suicide warning signs
- Learn the three step QPR process; ask about potential suicidal intent, listen and persuade someone to get help, and make a referral for professional assistance

Cost: $10.00

Fees charged will be refunded upon completion of the class. Those registering but not attending, will not be refunded. Cancellations will be accepted and refunded up to 24 hours prior to the training. The refund will return to the original payment method within 5-7 business days. safeTALK

Presented by Drew Aquino, LivingWorks

Most people with thoughts of suicide don't want to die—instead, they are looking for a way to work through the pain in their lives. Through their words and actions, they usually invite others to help them in making a choice for life. safeTALK teaches participants to recognize these invitations, engage with the person with thoughts of suicide, and connect them with resources to help them be safer from suicide. These resources could include health care professionals, first responders, or crisis line workers—among many others who have suicide intervention training.

The Columbia Protocol — Suicide Severity Rating Scale

Presented by The Columbia Lighthouse Project

THE COLUMBIA
LIGHTHOUSE

IDENTIFY RISK. PREVENT SUICIDE.

The Columbia-Suicide Severity Rating Scale (C-SSRS) is now widely recognized as a gold-standard, innovative suicide risk screening tool & has been implemented in many systems with tremendous benefit. Evaluation in hospital-based psychiatric emergency departments when it is not necessary is costly, sometimes traumatic, and may be less effective in routing people into ongoing care. This workshop will review the development of the C-SSRS and its administration. Participants will learn how to administer the full and screening versions of the tool, how to customize the tool and how to interpret results. Population-specific editions will also be reviewed (very young children, military, etc.). Training will include didactic, video demonstration and role play training techniques.

Brain Architecture Game

Did you know that 90% of your brain's development occurs before age five? Our experiences, good and bad, supportive or traumatic, drastically impact every aspect of our lives, from personal interactions to professional aspirations. The Brain Architecture Game is a hands-on, group activity that reveals how and why some children may struggle where others excel. You'll see—with your own eyes—how early interventions and support by caregivers and communities can help kids develop positive coping skills to buffer the effects of negative experiences.

REGISTRATION INFORMATION

When viewing this calendar in an electronic format, click on the date of the class you want to take and you will be redirected to the registration website.

Some classes have limited space, so register early.

Dates, times and locations of training (including a switch from in person to virtual) are subject to change. Those registered will be notified by email of any change at least 24 hours before the session.

If CEUs are available they are noted along with the description and any cost.

In Person classes: Participants MUST pre-register before attending. If you have not pre-registered, you will not be allowed to attend.

Those attending in person will receive parking instructions in their confirmation email.

Classes start and end on time. To ensure a quality experience for all participants, please arrive at least 10-15 minutes prior to the class start time to sign in and find a seat.

Virtual classes: Participants MUST pre-register to receive the link to join. Please log in 5-10 minutes prior to the class to ensure your technology and connection are working.

In order to ethically provide CEUs during virtual classes, we use a platform that generates attendance time reports. We are ethically bound to report the accumulated amount of time a participant attended, therefore we cannot issue CEUs to individuals:

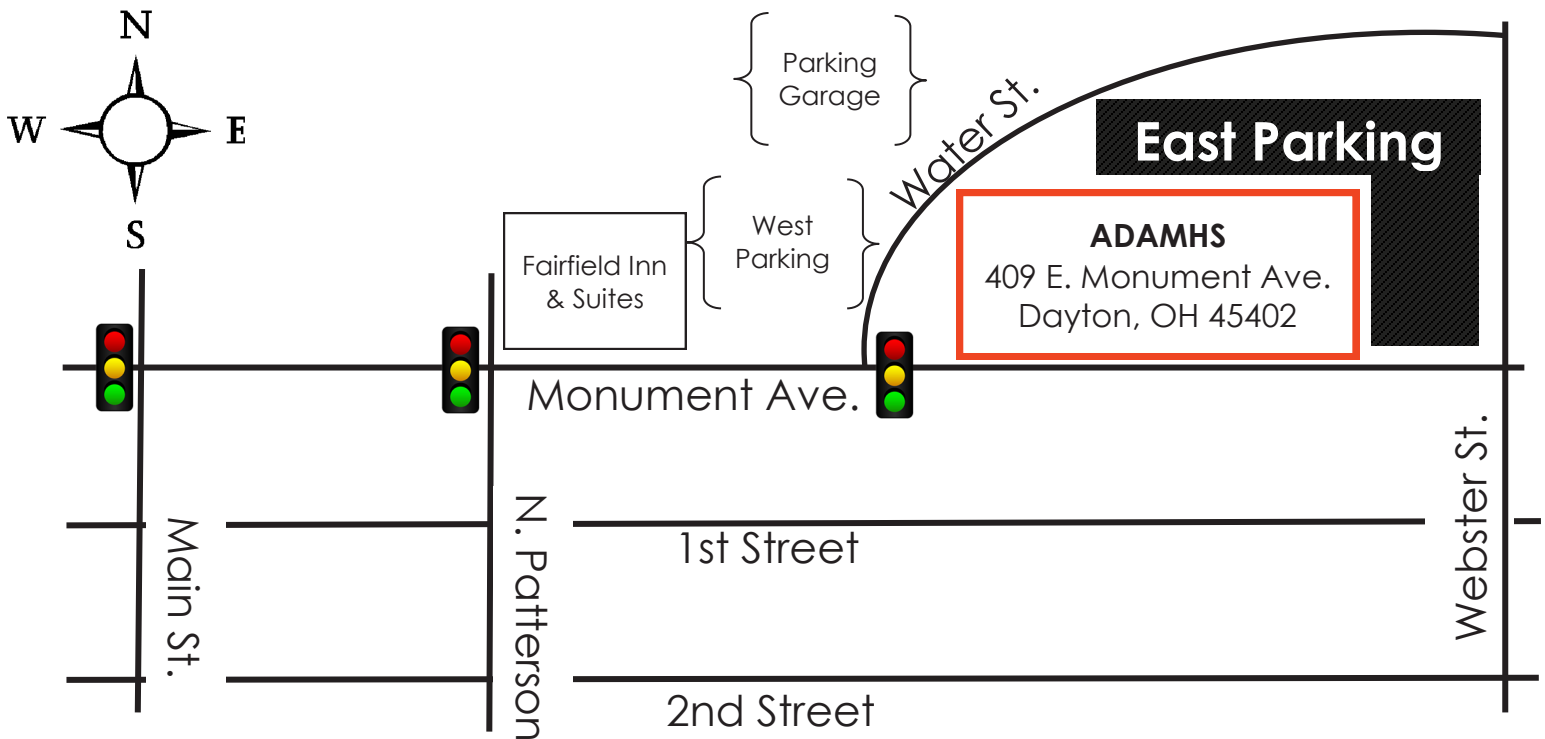

- sharing a monitor, computer, and/or login
- failing to ensure their name label includes their first and last name
- joining by phone
- missing more than 10 minutes of a training that is 60 minutes in length

CEUs will be adjusted to the nearest quarter hour to reflect the amount of time present for sessions over 60 minutes.

By registering and attending one of our classes, you acknowledge and agree that your photo may be taken and used by Montgomery County ADAMHS. If you do not agree to have your photo used, you must contact bketron@mcadamhs.org prior to the class.

If you require reasonable accommodation to participate in a training session, please contact bketron@mcadamhs.org prior to the class.
